That would make sense to me, but maybe me and Sheila since Rick is such a short timer....

It does, thank you.

Perhaps Dennis could take the initial call with you and/or Rick and then possibly delegate it to the ECL Director for future meetings.

Hi, Matt. I am aware of this effort and I think I spoke of it to Dennis during recent briefing. My understanding is that a very similar "regional collaborative" was formed a number of years ago (before my time) – EPA actively participated (Mark Masarick) but it didn't result in much of an improved relationship. I think the idea is to bring together all the local, state, and federal government agencies (and maybe others) together that deal with the Tribes in one way or other to see if a better, more productive working relationship could be established. Anyway, I don't know how EPA could "opt out" and since the Tribes specifically directed the contractor to speak only to Dennis, I suppose he should probably take the call.

Does that help?

Hi Beth,

Do you have any input about this before I schedule this call?

Matt

Hello Matt,

My name is Dan Adams. I work with a consulting firm that is helping the Shoshone Bannock tribe at Fort Hall in SE Idaho. We work with EPA quite a bit and we are on EPA's IDIQ for facilitation, collaboration, etc. With the tribe, we specifically are helping establish a regional collaborative that will involve local, state, and federal agencies as well as Simplot and FMC.

With regards to the EPA, the tribal chair and business council have directed me to make contact directly with Dennis McLerran. (Along the way I have also coordinated with Idaho state director Jim Werntz and had a call with your tribal policy advisor Jim Woods)

In my call to the administrators office today, I was instructed to send an email to you to see if I could schedule a call with Dennis.

If you could help me find a time in the next couple of weeks for a quick call, that would be great.

Sincerely,
Dan Adams
